Ms. Tuazon will show examples of her art, including "Promissory Notes," an artist-made currency project that provides a medium for trade, barter, and gift-giving. Other works include sculptures and photographs. She will also discuss her educational experience and her professional development as an artist. After graduating from The Cooper Union, Ms. Tuazon received an MFA from Yale University and attended the Whitney Museum Independent Study Program. Her work was recently included in the exhibitions "No Return" at Momena Art and "Mirror" presented by the Lower Manhattan Cultural Council.
