2023-2024 Financial Aid Process Priority Dates

The priority dates are only for students who meet the FAFSA Eligibility Requirements *

In supporting the FEC (Free Education Committee) 10 Year Plan and the Cooper Union financial budgetary needs, Student Financial Services has established the following financial aid priority dates for the 2023-2024 academic year.

The Cooper Union offers a half tuition scholarship to all undergraduate students who enroll full time at Cooper Union. The School also takes into account financial need beyond the Cooper Union half tuition scholarship using FAFSA information to assess a student's eligibility for additional need-based awards.

The amount of institutional aid, including grants and scholarships, to support Cooper Union students is limited. For students to have every opportunity to be considered for additional aid based on need, we strongly encourage you to complete the FAFSA application process before the priority deadline indicated below. These priority dates are established to facilitate a timely financial aid review and award by taking into account the possibility of additional steps in the review process due to the need for verification.

Verification is a federal regulation. There are several reasons for being selected for verification. Verification can add time to the financial aid review and delay the final determination of the Expected Family Contribution (EFC) and financial aid award. The final financial aid award beyond the half tuition Cooper Union scholarship is based on EFC and outcome of final verification.

The following priority deadlines for FAFSA application submission have been established to facilitate our ability to provide you timely notification about your EFC and eligibility for aid. Priority dates below provide time for you to work through any unforeseen concerns associated with the FAFSA submission.

Please be advised that due to limited institutional grants, financial assistance and scholarships, students are strongly encouraged to complete their FAFSA application process before the priority dates in order to receive a full consideration with their financial aid packages above the Cooper Union half tuition scholarship based on the final results of the verification process.

Current Enrolled Students: The priority deadline for submission of the completed FAFSA application and documents is March 31st, 2023. Students who miss the priority date risk the opportunity to receive additional scholarship and need-based grant aid above the Cooper Union half tuition scholarship due to limited award availability.

Current Enrolled Students Registering into the 2024 Spring Semester only:

The priority deadline for submission of the completed FAFSA application and documents is December 30th, 2023. Students who miss the priority date risk the opportunity to receive additional scholarship and need-based grant aid above the Cooper Union half tuition scholarship due to limited award availability.
