PRESIDENT
GEORGE CAMPBELL JR.
ABOVE WITH:

(l to r) State Assembly Member Deborah Glick, Vice President Robert Hawks, architect Thom Mayne, student Wallace Torres (Eng'11), President of New York City's Economic Development Corporation Seth Pinsky, Vice President Ronni Denes, Alumni Association President MaryAnn Nichols (A'68), Professor Richard Stock, associate architects Peter Samton and Jordan Gruzen, construction manager Frank Sciamme and Chair of the Board of Trustees, Ronald W. Drucker (CE'62) cutting the ribbon at 41 Cooper Square.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Leo Sorel

Each year in The Cooper Union Donor Report, we say thank you for the generosity and devotion to the college shown through contributions by individuals, alumni, foundations and government. This year, on behalf of the Trustees, officers, staff, faculty and students, I would like to express an especially profound and heartfelt gratitude to all who supported our academic programs and renewal of our facilities in the face of extreme economic apprehension.

In spite of the financial uncertainties, in 2009, we began the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the founding of The Cooper Union by Peter Cooper. It was Peter Cooper's pioneering spirit of philanthropy that gave rise to a vision of academic excellence and access to higher education that we uphold today, and it is a similar spirit that we see in all of you, our contributors and friends.

Over the summer we moved into 41 Cooper Square, our new academic building designed by Pritzker Prize-winning architect Thom Mayne. This green academic laboratory facility, built to LEED Platinum standards, now is inhabited by students, faculty and staff of all four academic divisions of the college, the Albert Nerken School of Engineering, the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, the School of Art and the Irwin S. Chanin School of Architecture. The building opened in September to broad critical acclaim worldwide. The New York Times' senior architecture critic Nicolai Ouroussoff called it "the kind of serious work that we don't see enough of in New York: a bold architectural statement of genuine civic value." In The Wall Street Journal, critic Ada Louise Huxtable lauded the design "not only for the latest in technology and sustainability, but also as an appropriate learning environment for those engaged in the creative disciplines."

This year, Great Evenings in the Great Hall presented recreations of the historic speeches that took place in the Great Hall over the years. An eight-part series related to important intellectual developments and social and political reform movements of the 19th and 20th centuries that were introduced or sustained in our Great Hall forums, the programs featured renowned actors and social activists who reenacted history made at The Cooper Union. Addressing topics from abolition, civil rights and women's suffrage to issues in science and technology and revolutionary work in literature and art, the event series has drawn a diverse and enthusiastic audience. Related to the Great Evenings, in June we hosted Mayor Michael Bloomberg and the leadership of the NAACP to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the organization's first meeting, which took place in the Great Hall.

As we reflect on the past century and a half, we remain deeply focused on maintaining the absolute highest standards of academic rigor that make our tuition-free education so highly coveted, exemplified by the soaring applications for admission. Our selectivity is among the best in the nation, with an acceptance rate of only seven percent. In 2009 two of our graduates won Fulbright Scholarships, bringing the total to 31 since 2001, maintaining The Cooper Union's place as one of the nation's top producers of Fulbright Scholars. Cooper Union faculty members have also been recognized with regional and national awards. Professor Walid Raad received the prestigious Guggenheim Fellowship in 2009, the sixth School of Art faculty member to be so honored since 2004. Dean Anthony Vidler of the Irwin S. Chanin School of Architecture was awarded AIA New York State Educator of the Year honors.

Cooper Union tuition last year was valued at $35,000 per student, and on the occasion of our 150th anniversary, the Board of Trustees reaffirmed our ongoing commitment to providing every admitted student with a full-tuition scholarship. The economic downturn notwithstanding, our capital campaign reached $181 million at the end of academic year 2009, supporting our academic programs, the endowment and capital projects—the new building at 41 Cooper Square and the renovation of the Foundation Building. With your ongoing and generous support, we fully expect to achieve our goal of $250 million in 2012, and we will continue meeting our commitment to the next generation of architects, artists and engineers who will shape our world.

LIFETIME GIVING

The Cooper Union established its Lifetime Giving Societies to recognize our most generous benefactors and to honor the philanthropic spirit that perpetuates the college. At this exceptional moment in the institution's history, as we celebrate The Cooper Union's 150th year in existence, the generosity of these societies' members plays an absolutely essential role in sustaining our founder Peter Cooper's noble mission—to provide an education that is "as free as air and water" to talented and deserving students, regardless of means, for generations to come.

Peter Cooper Heritage Society

Individuals and families who, over the course of their lives, have donated $1 million or more to The Cooper Union are inducted into the Peter Cooper Heritage Society, which celebrates the philanthropic spirit that perpetuates this institution.

CLASS GIVING

The Cooper Union depends on and is grateful for the generous and loyal support of its alumni. Next to each name appears the number of years that an alumnus or alumna has made a gift to the Annual Fund. Please note how these numbers were determined and what they represent:

We have kept computerized records of individual giving from 1980 to the present. Gifts made prior to 1980 are considered "historical year" gifts and cannot be counted individually. Therefore, the maximum number of years that any alumnus or alumna has next to his or her name for fiscal year 2009 is 30.

A portion of all unrestricted bequests received by The Cooper Union goes to the Annual Fund. Therefore, a deceased alumnus or alumna who had not made a gift to the Annual Fund will have the number one (1) next to his or her name if the bequest was received in fiscal year 2009.

Perpetual Annual Giving Endowments, or PAGE funds, are gifts to the endowment that generate income, year after year, for the Annual Fund. PAGE fund distributions are included in the count so that, in fact, someone may have made only one (1) Annual Fund gift, but all subsequent distributions are counted as years of participation, even posthumously.

Giving to The Cooper Union through the Annual Fund not only honors Peter Cooper's legacy and maintains the full-tuition scholarship tradition, but also keeps our facilities and programs on the cutting edge.

Jacob Mautner Arch '09

Giving to The Cooper Union through the Annual Fund ensures an excellent education. It also ensures the mopped floors under my feet, the smell of fresh paint on the walls, the one unused computer in the lab during finals and, of course, the freedom to learn that comes with a full-tuition scholarship.

Yanir Maidenberg CE '09

It is well known to the students that the Annual Fund supports facilities, laboratories, studios and shops and funds elective courses. This is very important to the Cooper Union students and faculty.

BUILDING FUND

41 Cooper Square is the linchpin in The Cooper Union's plan to assure academic excellence and financial security well into the 21st century. Since 2000, the building fund has supported the construction of this pedagogically and technologically advanced academic building, along with modifications to the landmark Foundation Building. Pritzker Prize-winning architect Thom Mayne and his firm Morphosis, with associate architects Gruzen Samton, designed the new nine-story building, which houses the Albert Nerken School of Engineering, the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences and some facilities of the Irwin S. Chanin School of Architecture and the School of Art. The building features green design, flexible space that can be reconfigured as technology and pedagogy evolve and exceptional classrooms, laboratories, studios and student spaces. The building was finished in September 2009 in time for the fall semester. In FY 2009, The Cooper Union's generous donors contributed more than $6 million toward 41 Cooper Square, bringing the year-end total to about $63 million.

Italics connote new and increased Building Fund donors in FY 2009.

Wall Street Campaign

The Wall Street Sky Bridge and Lounge at 41 Cooper Square are named by and for a group of Cooper Union alumni who work in the financial services industry. Spanning the building's central atrium on the sixth floor, the Wall Street Sky Bridge honors those generous donors who have contributed the cost of one semester to four years of tuition for one student, $15,000-$120,000, repaying the generous gift that helped make their careers possible.

Italics connote new Wall Street donors in FY 2009.

RESTRICTED GIVING

Restricted Giving and Gifts to the Endowment

Because The Cooper Union receives no income from its core business—the education of our students—endowment as well as expendable restricted funds are of critical importance to the financial well-being of the college. Even more than for most colleges and universities, the Endowment and the management of its assets, along with the health of the Annual Fund and outright restricted support, are key to The Cooper Union's viability as an ongoing operation and a superior academic institution.

Through such targeted support, the critical needs of the college, most importantly full-tuition scholarships, are met each and every year. Endowment and restricted contributions also help The Cooper Union underwrite special faculty positions, such as deanships and distinguished professorships; the operation of research institutes and centers and of programs in such areas as biomedical engineering and sustainable design; the sponsorship of lecture series and exhibitions; and the ongoing acquisition of equipment, library books and similar scholastic necessities.

The scale and scope of the philanthropy that perpetuates The Cooper Union, through outright donations and farsighted planned gifts, enable the college to maintain in its commitment to provide full-tuition scholarships to all our students—the brilliant, motivated young people who have achieved admission solely on the basis of merit.

Leo Sorel

Named Gifts and Funds

The Cooper Union appreciates the alumni and friends who established and contributed to named scholarships, fellowships, chairs, lectureships, facilities and programs. These funds provide essential support for the college, while honoring or memorializing a friend or loved one or creating a family legacy.

Estate and Planned Gifts

We are grateful for the thoughtful generosity of the following people who made tax-planned charitable gifts or whose estate gifts were received during FY 2009. These gifts offer an opportunity to meet a variety of financial goals while helping The Cooper Union maintain its academic programs over the long term.

The Society of 1859

Benefactors who include The Cooper Union in their financial or estate plans, contribute to the general endowment of the college or establish a named endowment fund, become members of The Society of 1859. Through their commitment they ensure the resources to provide full-tuition scholarships for all admitted students. Their gifts sustain the values of excellence and opportunity set forth in 1859 by Peter Cooper.

The individuals listed below informed Cooper Union of their bequest intention during FY 2009.

PAGE Funds

Perpetual Annual Giving
Endowment funds enable alumni and other friends of the college to establish a permanent named fund, honoring or memorializing a loved one or an organization. The fund's earnings are credited to the Annual Fund, providing vital operating revenue for the college and recognition in perpetuity for the donor.

Public Programs and Continuing Education

The Cooper Union, in keeping with Peter Cooper's wish, is one of New York's premier public forums for the discussion of ideas. The Great Hall, the Rose Auditorium and the galleries are regularly filled with lectures, book signings,
 performances and exhibitions.
 Most of these events are free and open to the public.
